

THE POLITICAL ARENA.

Amusing Sideshow of the Republican Women Now On.

TOO GOOD FOR THE PARTY

THEY HAVE GOOD REASONS FOR ACTING SEPARATELY.

But Where Will They Get Their Influence on Their Party—Meaning the Convention Has Aroused the Democratic Women to Renewed Efforts—Cause and That Chairmanship—Judge Norrell Has Returned—He Will Accept the Chairmanship of the Commission—Says Silver is in the Ascendancy in Mississippi.

The effects of the Democratic convention of last Saturday have not yet worn off. Neither the Democrats nor the Republicans had any idea of the large gathering that came together, transacted the necessary business, heard good Democratic war talks and went back to carry the harbingers of the Democratic victory to all parts of the territory. The small fry Republican press began a belated cry. The Tribune would have liked to do so, but it could not. Already the effects talk about them and gather funds for the party and get the women in line, while men will dictate the platform, handle the funds, make the platform and let the women obey their decrees. This must be a proud position for such women as Emmeline E. Wells, who, for years, has been denouncing that the women have just as much political ability as the men.

How Will They Elevate?

How are they to bring about an elevation of the Republican party? How is that refining influence of womanhood to be exerted on the political elements which make up its autonomy? With women acting separately from the men in the party, the same principles will be promulgated, the same kind of peanut politicians will be nominated, and the Republican women, far from exerting any influence on the party, must look at the ticket, vote it straight and then go home and try to excuse themselves in their own minds. It is indeed a sorry spectacle to see a party that makes such claims to respectability and conservatism too discordant and too corrupt, too degenerate to be good enough for its own women.

The Democratic Women.

In the meantime the movement of the Republican women has resulted in nothing but good to the Democracy. When the movement to have the women enter politics was first started an intense resistance was met with. Objections were raised that the leaders would be pointed to with scorn and derision. It seemed to be a very important step to take and the women, conservative as they are, hesitated before taking it. However the movement was started and the convention showed its entire success. OGDEN THIEF CAUGHT.

TRADED A STOLEN NECKTIE FOR A BATH AT THE HOT SPRINGS.

Officer Roberts was on the scene and took him in—He Evidently Has Two Pals, Who Have Made Their Escape—Tried to Implicate a Young Man—Inevitably Expected with the Circus, and a Warm Reception Provided—Gamblers Being Raided.

Now some of the fraternity of crooks are saying it is a very bad thing to take a bath. The local sports have never been very fond of water, but it is inevitable that they should be more prejudiced. It is all because one of their number took a bath and was caught yesterday.

About 8 o'clock yesterday morning a telephone message to the police station from Ogden announced the burglarizing of the store of the Darling & Ives Clothing company of three grips, three suits of underclothing, some suits of clothes and socks, handkerchiefs, caps, hats, shirts, ties, belts and other necessary things. In a few moments the intelligence was spread among the officers and they began to look for strangers with new grips.

During the morning, Officer Roberts took a trip to the Hot Springs and made a bath when he came out he was shown a tie that had been given for the burglarizing of the Darling & Ives Clothing company. He immediately became aroused and he held for the man who had given him the tie. The fellow came out of a new grip with him. Roberts was sure he had made a catch. Taken with the things in his hand, the man could do nothing but acknowledge that he had been concerned in the Ogden affair and he was brought to the city and locked up to await the arrival of the Ogden officers.

He gave the name of Golden Brown. He is a young man, married about two years old, with a badge of his profession written all over his face. He had not dared to take a train out of Ogden and had trudged all the way from the Junction city to the Hot Springs, probably with the intention of taking a train from this city or some point south. However, he would have been compelled to raise some money for the stolen clothing before going so.

The fact that Brown had only one of the three stolen grips in his hand, made it positive that there were others. When questioned, the prisoner said he had two pals, one a young man, who had put on one of the collars and had come to the city. He gave alleged descriptions of both men and the officers set out to find them. Along in the afternoon an officer saw the young man described by the burglar and he was taken in. However, he easily proved himself innocent. He said he had met Brown near the Hot Springs and the latter, seeing his clothes were soiled, had open heartily given him another.

Later, when Chief Davenport came down to take him to Ogden, Brown changed his statement and said that he was the only man concerned in the job. However, he would not tell why it was that he had not all the goods with him. The officers still believe that the fellow's pals have taken an early train and gone east or west or that they are secreted in this county.

Brown was taken to Ogden on the 7 o'clock train last evening.

The Circus Is Coming.

For the balance of this week and part of the next, the police of the city will be particularly active and alert. The circus is coming to town, and it is a big show. Such aggregations, despite the efforts of the management, always bring in their train an assortment of thieves and clerks, and the bankers' action will no doubt be greatly appreciated by them. James E. Jennings was elected to succeed Mr. Cummings as vice-president of the clearing house. Mr. Jennings is a case of the Utah Commercial Savings bank, the same institution where Mr. Cummings was formerly engaged.

MRS. REILLY AND DR. MABRY.

Latest Developments—A Talk with Mabry's Attorneys—Those Letters.

The announcement in yesterday's Herald of the return of Mrs. Reilly, and of recent developments in the case that would tend to shake the faith of the stoutest supporters of Dr. Mabry turned attention once more to the whole nasty mess, but still there are some who took no stock whatever in the genuineness of the Mabry letters published in full in the other morning's paper. Dr. Mabry is anything in this claim, of course it will soon develop.

The attorneys of Dr. Mabry were not in a position to say anything about the case. Mr. George F. Goodwin, who besides being the attorney for the account, is his confidential friend, said yesterday to a Herald man, "I cannot say anything until I hear from Dr. Mabry. He is now in Greenville, Illinois, and I have every reason to believe he has been there since he left this city. We have constantly been in correspondence and never has more than a week gone by without my receiving at least one letter. The intervals were generally of only three or four days. All the letters have been dated from Greenville and have reached me promptly after the date at the head of them. If all were written at Greenville it would be almost impossible for the Mabry to have gone to any other place for more than a day or two. Of course it is possible that the letters may have been written in Canada and mailed to Greenville, and then remailed from that place. But I can hardly conceive of such a thing. Even if Dr. Mabry is coming to this city, and remaining out of the United States and had gone anywhere else for a time, I can hardly believe he should have endeavored to keep me in ignorance of his whereabouts, as an attorney. It is unfortunate that in the course of the letters there is anything which would necessarily prove them to be written in Greenville and I did not keep copies of my letters so as to be able to verify dates.

RELIEF SOCIETY OUTING.

AN ENJOYABLE EXCURSION TO A BEAUTIFUL SALT LAKE.

The Attendance Was Large and Many Prominent Ladies and Gentlemen Were Present—Interesting Exercises in the Afternoon.

The Relief society excursion to Saltair yesterday was a complete success.

The attendance was very large and was notable for the number of prominent ladies and gentlemen who participated in the affair. The bathing was never finer, and all of the usual attractions of the famous resort received attention.

In addition, an interesting programme was carried out in the afternoon. The Old Folks choir sang an opening hymn, after which Apostle Brigham Young offered prayer. The choir gave another selection following which Mrs. E. H. Woodmansee read an original poem, written for the occasion. Hon. C. W. Penrose then made a

are being felt in the Democratic ranks. The most encouraging information comes from all near-by sections and other like reports are expected from the outlying counties in the near future. Meantime the effect on the Republicans has been something ludicrous. They were making such claims before and had such a sorry result for them that they do not know exactly what to say.

The Republican Women.

If there is anything in the present political situation that threatens to outshine in picturesque features the spectacular campaign of the coloreds, it is the sideshow, afternoon tea, sewing circle, or something of that kind, being carried on by the Republican women. It would be interesting if they would take a little time, consider the question in all its bearings, set their intuition to working and answer the all-absorbing question, which or what is it? Is it a sort of literary society? Will it have afternoon receptions and serve tea, with sugar, cream, gossip and political speeches? Will it have papers on the political condition of Queen Lil, or the significance of the latest addition to the Cleveland family?

Rather Bad Company.

These are just a few of the questions agitating the minds of the interested onlookers. The determination of the Republican women to act separately from the men may have a dozen excuses. In the first place the Republicans have managed to pick up most of the political rag-tag and bobtail in this territory. Immediately after they won the election in this territory, such men as William Showell, Harry Joseph, Bruce Johnson and their kind flocked to their standard. Republican primaries, instead of being orderly bodies, were turned into hotbeds of rowdiness. The irresponsible element, that with which the high-minded women do not care to associate, were in the party. That is one good reason.

Flocking with the Tribune.

There was another one. The women did not care to be under the domination of Charles Crane and Colonel Trumbo. Be it known that among the most active of the workers against this combination have been most of the women at the head of the present separate organization of women. They have given a very good example of their womanly intuition, rising up as Charles as a light-weight and putting the colonel down as too heavy a society man, and an all around unsound. They have shown lack of discrimination in not putting down Frank Goodwin as a much over-rated man, full of crocodile tears and jokes, but sadly lacking in logic and real influence or force among men of strong morality and great attainments, as well as lacking somewhat in that quality which women most like—fearlessness and uncompromising hostility before an unscrupulous enemy. In other words, the large part of the women have sided with the Tribune clique. They will not operate with the men until the Crane ring is ousted.

Men Do Not Want Them.

There is a third and more potent reason why the women will operate separately. The Republican party is not yet ready to take them into full fellowship. By far the largest element opposed to women suffrage lies in the Republican ranks. The men do not admit that their women can give them valuable aid and counsel. If they were to be taken in at all it would be patronizingly and if they were admitted into full fellowship, now there would be more trouble in the Republican ranks than before. It looks as though another straw would break the camel's back and the leaders are reluctant to admit that straw. Therefore, the women are switched off into a side show. They are told they can have politics. They can publican women simply had to come out. There was nothing else they could do. In the language of the hunters, they were "smoked out." Now the Democratic women have a line in sight. They see that the game of politics for them has begun in real earnest.

Have the Advantage.

The Democratic women feel that there is no necessity of going too far in politics but they are now roused to a consciousness of the generosity of the Democrats in being so quick to extend every privilege. The niggardliness of the Republicans has accentuated the better feelings they have toward them and they are coming to appreciate them more and more. They have the advantage. They have most of the leaders with them and decline to be shaken by sophistries. They realize that they have taken the tide at its flood and know that it cannot but lead on to victory. So the situation is encouraging.

A Laughable Thing.

The Tribune campaign liar has now become a student of expression. He goes about, here, there and everywhere, and judges of political developments or happenings by the lines on a man's face. But the trouble is he does not give enough consideration to the state of a man's digestion or the effect of the summer heat or other potent causes of strong feeling, and therefore he is often wrong. He said yesterday that Charles Crane emerged from the meeting of the Republican executive committee with an irritated look upon his face. That, however, is chronic with Boss Charles ever since the Democratic convention. The fact is there was nothing whatever in the meeting to cause any expression of irritation to appear on the face of the boss. The executive committee had more political judgment than the Tribune and absolutely declined to take any action or even to discuss the candidacy of Crane or his holding the chairmanship. That is a matter wherein the committee has absolutely no jurisdiction. Any assumption thereof would be extreme impudence.

Judge Norrell Returns.

Judge Norrell returned yesterday after a month's visit in the south, where he went for the benefit of his health. He stopped in St. Louis to consult Dr. Fischer, a specialist in diseases of the stomach, and under his treatment is somewhat improved, but yet still far from well.

The judge, while spending a short time at his old home in Mississippi took the opportunity to observe the political situation and reports the sentiment in favor of silver very strong and growing, so much so that Mississippi will send a silver man to the senate in lieu of Senator George, whose term expires this fall.

In regard to his election to the chairmanship of the Utah commission, Mr. Norrell said he regarded it as a compliment, but he would accept it on the condition that if Mr. Fletcher was absolutely determined to give up the office he would accept it and fulfill the duties thereof to the best of his ability, although the state of his health at present would preclude his engaging in very arduous labors of any kind.

thugs who take advantage of the general attention to make free with insecure fastenings. The police are taking every precaution and the detective force will probably be increased for several days. Just now the town is almost free from bad crooks and those remaining are being put in jail or run out of town as fast as they give the police a chance to bring them in. It is feared, however, that a few will be left in town for some time. If they do they can be promised a very warm reception. Things will be made so interesting for them that they will be glad to leave in a short while.

SATURDAY HALF HOLIDAY.

CLEARING HOUSE DIRECTORY PROVIDES ONE FOR BANK CLERKS

After Thirty Days One Must Get His Check Cashed Before 1 O'clock on Saturday or Wait Until the Following Monday—James E. Jennings Elected Vice-President, to Succeed M. E. Cummings, Resigned.

Thirty days from date, the man who has a check which he wishes cashed at the bank will have to get it into the paying teller's window before 1 o'clock Saturday unless he wants to wait until the Monday following. The clerks of all banking institutions will in the future have a half holiday Saturdays.

This action was taken at a meeting of the Clearing House association, held at the Alta club last evening. The gathering was held for the purpose of electing a successor to Vice-President E. E. Cummings, who resigned some time ago. But this question came up on a petition by the bank clerks which was the result of a meeting by them some thirty days ago. In this petition they asked for a half holiday each Saturday until October. The board of directors at last night's session declined to accede to the request of the clerks and give them a half holiday each Saturday until October, but went down one better and made it a permanent affair.

There will be thirty days notice given of the change, in order to better prepare the business public for the new order of things, but after that period elapses each bank in the city will close at the appointed time.

This action will be a great boon to the brief address, in which he referred to the usefulness of the Relief society and told of its work. A piano solo by Miss Kate Romney and Miss Cecelia Sharp came next, and Ruth M. Fox gave a recitation that was warmly applauded. "Auld Lang Syne" as rendered by the choir, touched a responsive chord in every heart.

A particularly interesting feature was the fancy dancing by pupils of Professor Christensen, and young Lawrence McDonald distinguished himself by dancing the sailor's hornpipes in an artistic manner.

Altogether, the outing was a most enjoyable one.

REFORM OR REVOLUTION.

John Stubbs Thinks One or the Other Must Come.

The Political Reform association held its usual weekly meeting last evening at the open air stand opposite the Metropolitan hotel.

Two introductory remarks were made by E. W. Reese, after which John Stubbs, of the Denver Post, gave for an hour and a half on "Reform or Revolution." He said one or the other was inevitable. If reform, through the ballot box, was not obtained, revolution must be the result. The former could only be accomplished by the laboring people sticking together and electing proper parties to represent them in the halls of Congress and in the state legislatures.
